

GP-302627

HYDROFORMED TORQUE CONVERTER FLUID COUPLING MEMBER

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method of manufacturing a torque converter fluid coupling member includes forming a plurality of hollow tubes having first and second ends and connecting the plurality of tubes together side-by-side in an annular array. Fluid may be carried through each tube from the first end to the second end, thereby forming the fluid coupling member. The fluid coupling member may be a turbine or a pump of a torque converter.